

Playing politics with the gun issue can be dangerous.

A lot has changed in the last 4 years. But some things haven't. In 2004, we reminded our friends in Boston that playing politics with the gun issue can be dangerous to their political future.

Well, it still is. This year, we thought it would be prudent to remind the Democratic party's leadership of these sage words of our 42nd President, Bill Clinton...

Everyone from the New York Times to Washington's leading pundits have acknowledged that Al Gore lost because of the gun issue. So did John Kerry and Tom Daschle. Even Bill Clinton conceded as much in his biography. In fact, many senators and congressmen have been defeated because they, too, failed to support the rights of America's 80 million gun owners.

Yet, even today, some politicians are still trying to fool gun owners by paying lip service to the Second Amendment. It hasn't worked in the past and it won't work now because playing politics with the gun issue is still dangerous.

Visit www.NRAILA.org for more information about protecting your Second Amendment right to keep and bear arms.

NRA-ILA

Paid for by NRA-Institute for Legislative Action. Chris W. Cox, Executive Director