

Playing politics with the gun issue can be dangerous.

Everyone from Charlie Cook to The New York Times has acknowledged that the gun issue cost Al Gore Arkansas, Tennessee and West Virginia and thus the presidency. Now, even Bill Clinton has conceded as much. Dozens of senators and congressmen have “ex-” in front of their names because of Bill Clinton’s obsession with taking on the gun issue.

Bill Clinton may have learned his lesson, playing politics with the gun issue can be dangerous, but it was others who paid the heavy price.

Visit www.NRAILA.org for more information about protecting your Second Amendment right to keep and bear arms.

NRA-ILA

Paid for by NRA-Institute for Legislative Action, Chris W. Cox, Executive Director